IMPETUS TO COMPETENCY BASED SKILL DEVELOPMENT

Rajesh Agarwal

Every year more than 13 million Indians enter the working age. The country has an annual training capacity of 3 million on adding up all the training and educational capacities in ITIs, polytechnics, graduate colleges, professional colleges etc. It takes 1 year to 4 years to create an educated/ skilled Indian. Therefore even if a rapid capacity building spree is undertaken, this gap of more than 10 million is very difficult to bridge as the long gestation periods for training make the pace of skilling slower than the pace at which new Indians are entering the working age. Addressing this issue is critical to realizing the demographic dividend potential of India.

It is in the above context that Government of India created a separate Ministry for Skill Development & Entrepreneurship which launched the flagship skill development scheme by the name of Pradhan Mantri Kaushal Vikas Yojana (PMKVY) to provide fresh impetus to competency based skill development in India. The objective of this skill certification and reward scheme is to enable and mobilize a large number of Indian youth to take up outcome based skill training, become employable and earn their livelihood. This scheme also addresses lack of industry driven competency based train-

Narendra Modi, Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship (MSDE). The first year (2015-2016) of the scheme was utilized in setting the right foundations to further scale up the scheme. Since then this scheme has been a major source of skilled manpower to the employment (principal and subsidiary) in the rural areas and 69 per cent in urban areas. The figures for informal employment are likely to be even larger because enterprises identified as "employer's households", which account for employment like the provision of domestic services, are excluded from the definition of the informal sector.

PMKVY has a crucial role to improve productivity in the informal sector through creation of a pool of industry and National Skills Qualification Framework (NSQF) aligned skilled workforce. PMKVY (2016-2020) requires that at least 70% successfully assessed trainees are provided with wage employment. The scheme provides incentives to Training Providers for successfully attaining the required placement norms. Being a flagship skill development scheme, providing a significantly large pool of skilled manpower trained on industry aligned NSQF standards to informal sector for improved productivity, is a key impact of this scheme.

job roles in the PMKVY training ecosystem which readily lend themselves to creation of microenterprises. Select examples of such job roles for which training is undertaken in PMKVY include Self-employed tailor, Hand embroider, Small poultry farmer, E-rickshaw driver and service technician, Carpenter, Stitching operator (partially in traditional clusters across the country), etc. This is resulting in creation of new microenterprises by skilled and competent PMKVY trainees. Recent mobile app based market aggregators like Urban Clap, Housejoy, etc have provided a further fillip to the available self-employment avenues in select trades.

As part of the state component of the scheme, state skill development missions are encouraged to undertake traditional apprenticeship training in artisan and handicraft clusters of the concerned states. Creating a pool of next generation skilled craftsmen is extremely critical to preservation of traditional art and ing institutions and hence addresses some of the market failures pertaining to competency based training.

The Scheme was launched on 15 July, 2015, on the occasion of World Youth Skills Day by Hon-ourable Prime Minister, Shri

CAREER IN ENVIRONMENT IMPACT ASSESSMENT

Dr. Pawan Kumar Bharti

Environment Impact Assessment or EIA can be defined as the study to predict the effect of a proposed activity/project on the environment. A decision making tool, EIA compares various alternatives for a project and seeks to identify the one which represents the best combination of economic and environmental costs and benefits.

Environmental Assessment (EA) is the term used for the assessment of the environmental consequences (positive and negative) of a plan, policy, program or project prior to the decision to move forward with the proposed action. In this context, the term 'Environmental Impact Assessment' (EIA) is usually used when applied to concrete projects and the term 'strategic environmental assessment' applies to policies, plans and programmes.

Environmental assessments may be governed by rules of administrative procedure regarding public participation and documentation of decision making, and may be subject to judicial review.

The purpose of the assessment is to ensure that decision makers consider the environmental impacts when deciding whether or not to proceed with a project. The International Association for Impact Assessment (IAIA) defines an environmental impact assessment as "the process of identifying, predicting, evaluating and mitigating the biophysical, social, and other relevant effects of development proposals prior to major decisions being taken and commitments made." EIAs are unique in that they do not require adherence to a predetermined environmental outcome, but rather they require decision makers to account for environmental values in their decisions and to justify those decisions in light of detailed environmental studies and public comments on the potential environmental impacts.

Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) is an important management tool for ensuring optimal use of natural resources for sustainable development. A beginning in this direction was made in our country with the impact assessment of river valley projects in 1978-79 and the scope has subsequently been enhanced to cover other developmental sectors such as industries, thermal power projects, mining schemes etc. To facilitate collection of environmental data and preparation of management plans, guidelines have been evolved and circulated to the concerned Central and State Government Departments. EIA has now been made mandatory under the Environmental (Protection) Act, 1986 for 29 categories of developmental activities involving investments of Rs. 50 crores and above.

ENRICH YOUR LIFE SKILLS & CAREER

Dr. Jitendra Nagpal

Life skills are abilities for adaptive and positive behaviour that enable our youngsters to deal effectively with the demands and challenges of everyday life. These are a set of human skills acquired via teaching or direct experience that are used to handle problems and questions commonly encountered in daily human life.

Dr. Jitendra Nagpal is a Life Skills Coach. He is a developmental trainer in youth well being and soft skills for the schools, colleges and corporate sector. In this regular column, he will answer the questions of our readers.

Q. My 22 yr old daughter has recently finished her college. She is a very brilliant girl - good in academics and music. She had a disciplined schedule of singing practice, studies and going out with friends. But for the last few days, she could not continue with her music because of her semester exams. Post her exams she left everything. Now she does not do anything except going out, watching T.V or sitting on her laptop. We get into arguments over her late nights and also over the fact that she has become very casual. Tell me how I should deal with these issues.

Ans. To maintain the harmony of your relationship, it is mandatory to balance communication from both sides. Make sure that there is an open communication pattern. Express your viewpoint and listen to her points also instead of sulking and having a nagging tone every time you talk to her. It is a crucial time for her to make her career choice, just concentrate on her studies.

Your daughter might want time to relax mentally and physically. Give her a little space. Find an appropriate time to talk to her about how she plans going forward. Be knowledgeable on issues related to her career. Spend time with her and let her gain confidence in you to express herself. Acknowledge and appreciate her from time to time and let her rejuvenate herself with her music. The best thing you can do is to ask her to watch music shows if possible, wake up with her in the morning and help her getting back into practice, plan her daily schedule and help her follow it. Initially, let her have small hours of study which can be increased gradually. You must remember that healthy communication established and reinforced during this critical period forms the blue print of life.

Q. I have passed my 12th, currently giving competitive exams. I'm little stressed about my career. My issue is that I have so many people around me who are more concerned about my admission than me and my parents. I feel this constant pressure always on my head and do not want to go out of house. Now though I must say that my parents are so understanding that we hardly discuss about admissions and work life till I want them to, and I feel relaxed talking to them. But, please guide me on how should I deal with these people.

Ans. Dear student, I am sure we all have gone through this situation. You are really lucky to have parents who are understanding, and are like your friends. Try talking to your parents about such situations and how you feel. Sometimes a firm message being passed to others helps a great deal. Next time you meet them you might tell them in a very soft but firm way that I am already working my best for my future and my parents are helping me in this process. I thank you for your concern & want to tell you that coming out of the house is a way of destressing myself, but talking about the same issue again & again I do not really like. You need to understand that we cannot control how others talk, but definitely our approach towards them. Maybe they are concerned about you and this is their way of boosting your energy levels to help you achieve your goal.

You can take their comments as a source of encouragement or instead of withdrawing yourself just listen to them and move on. Your main goal is to crack through the process of admissions, and once you get admission somewhere on their own, they will stop. Be focused on your aim and keep on asking Q's or giving feedback. I am sure you will do well.

CAREER IN ENVIRONMENT...

With a view to ensure multi-disciplinary input required for environmental appraisal of development projects, Expert Committees have been constituted for the following sectors:

- Mining Projects
- Industrial Projects
- Thermal Power Projects
- River Valley, Multipurpose, Irrigation and H.E. Projects
- Infrastructure Development and Miscellaneous Projects
- Nuclear Power Projects

Process:

Once an application has been submitted by a project authority alongwith all the requisite documents specified in the EIA Notification, it is scrutinised by the technical staff of the Ministry prior to placing it before the Environmental Appraisal Committees. The Appraisal Committees evaluate the impact of the project based on the data furnished by the project authorities and if necessary, site visits or on-the-spot assessment of various environmental aspects are also undertaken. Based on such examination, the Committees make recommendations for approval or rejection of the project, which are then processed in the Ministry for approval or rejection.

In case of site specific projects such as Mining, River Valley, Ports and Harbours etc., a two stage clearance procedure has been adopted whereby the project authorities have to obtain site clearance before applying for environmental clearance of their projects. This is to ensure avoiding areas which are ecologically fragile and environmentally sensitive. In case of projects where complete information has been submitted by the project proponents, a decision is taken within 90 days.

The Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) should be prepared on the basis of the existing background pollution levels vis-a-vis contributions of pollutants from the proposed plant. The project may be of two categories according to size/capacity or importance i.e. Category A and category B. The EIA should address some of the basic factors listed below:

Meteorology and air quality (Ambient levels of pollutants such as Sulphur Dioxide, oxides of nitrogen, carbon monoxide, suspended particulate matters, should be determined at the center and at 3 other locations on a radius of 10 km with 120 degrees angle between stations. Additional contribution of pollutants at the locations are required to be predicted after taking into account the emission rates of the pollutants from the stacks of the proposed plant, under different meteorological conditions prevailing in the area.)

- Hydrology and water quality
- Site and its surroundings
- Occupational safety and health
- Details of the treatment and disposal of effluents (liquid, air and solid) and the methods of alternative uses
- Transportation of raw material and details of material handling
- Control equipment and measures proposed to be adopted

EIA and opportunities

As a profession, FAE/PC is very important in EIA studies, as people are concerned about the core subject(s) related to Environmental Sciences.

Traditionally, job opportunities in EIA sector include positions in academia, government, environmental consulting. Many of these consultancies have an aging work force and are engaged in a long term hiring trend to replace retirees. Job opportunities in the field of EIA are excellent with the right educational preparation. EIA experts explore the project area, its processes, predict and suggest remedial measures for negative impacts of a proposed activity, plant or project.

EIA is a specific field, and career tracks are generally determined by specialization and level of education obtained. EIA experts can get specialization work in Air Pollution & Control, Air Modelling, Water Pollution & Control, Hydrology, Soil Science, Meteorology, Geology, Hazardous Waste management, Noise and Vibration, Rainwater Harvesting, Ecology and Biodiversity, Socio-economic Study, Risk Assessment, etc.

Higher Studies/research work may provide global opportunities in various National/International Studies like, Himalayan

Studies, South Ocean drilling program, Arctic Mission, Antarctic Mission, etc

Basic Eligibility:

EIA is a field that requires candidates from various interdisciplinary scientific branches. Science or even social science graduates can make career in their interests. Various degree/diploma courses are conducted by various universities/institutions in India and abroad. One can pursue different courses/degree in the field of Sciences. Few major eligibility criteria are given below:

- B.Sc. - in General Science or Biological Sciences, Natural Science
- M.Sc. - in Environment, Chemistry, Geology or equivalent
- M. Tech. - in Environmental Engineering, Remote Sensing & GIS, Geoinformatics,
- PG Dip. - in Geoinformatics, Pollution Control, Remote Sensing & GIS,
- Ph.D. - in Environmental Science, Environmental Engineering, Chemistry or equivalent

Institution/NGO/Consultancy

There are many institutions/consultancies, where one can build one's career and/or continue the study/research work also. Apart from the study centres established in governmental organization, there are many private consultancies, MNCs and NGOs, which are working in the field of EIA. Maximum can be accessed online on the respective websites. Accredited organizations can be observed on the official website of QCI, NABET.

QCI-NABET:

As per QCI-NABET, EIA is a statutory requirement for most developmental and industrial activities in our country. It is also being progressively used by financial institutions to assess the soundness of investment in a given project.

National Accreditation Board for Education & Training (NABET), a constituent board of the QCI has developed a voluntary accreditation Scheme with inputs from various stakeholders including experts in the field, regulatory agencies, consultants etc., and launched it in August 2007. Some of the leading consultants in the field obtained accreditation under the scheme. The Ministry of Environment and Forests (MOEF) reviewed the scheme in 2009 and desired that the Scheme be updated incorporating the learning since launching of the Scheme. The Scheme was made mandatory.

As per NABET scheme, the following may be the job titles in any EIA firm:

- EIA Coordinator (EC)
- Associate EIA Coordinator (AEC) for category A
- Functional Area Experts (FAEs)
- Functional Area Associate (FAA)
- Team Members (TM)
- Mentors

Scope and career:

After pursuing a suitable degree or diploma or PG in Sciences from an approved university or similar institutions, the candidate can choose any of the given options as per his qualification, interest and potential. People can choose full time or part time employment in the field of EIA; they may be in-house expert or empanelled expert.

The most popular occupations for part-time career in EIA are given below:

- Environmental Manager - for EIA studies in consultancies
- Scientist/Analyst - in Government or private Research Institute/Organizations/Testing laboratories
- Scientific Officer - in scientific governmental organizations or NGOs
- Lecturer/Professor - in University or academic Institution
- Lab in-charge - in testing laboratories
- Assistant Manager - in corporate various groups
- Consultant - in consultancy, NGOs or similar firms

Apart from these, candidate can make his/her career in many other related jobs/posts. Candidate can start his career in the field of EIA and can start his own consultancy firm. EIA is one of the fast growing disciplines and having tremendous full time or additional opportunities for enthusiastic candidates.

Q3 GDP NUMBERS AT 7 % SHOWS ECONOMY IS RESILIENT

K R Sudhaman

Demonetisation has not hit the economy badly as feared and India remained fastest growing economy, a tad higher than China if one goes by the Central Statistical Organisation's latest figures. This year's third quarter figures released recently estimate Q3 GDP at 7 per cent. The risk of demonetization has impacted growth significantly because of good monsoon, perhaps and the resilience of the economy.

The CSO also stuck with its January advance estimates for the full year 2016-17 at 7.1 per cent. The seven per cent growth in Q3 is marginally lower than 7.3 per cent recorded in previous quarter Q2, which meant that GDP has marginally slowed down. The demonetization happened on November 8, 2016 that is, during third quarter when Rs 500 and Rs 1000 notes accounted for 86 per cent of the currency in circulation was withdrawn.

No one is disputing the fact that demonetization has hit the economy in the short-term as 50 per cent of the Indian economy dependent on informal sector, which largely dependent on cash economy. A large chunk of informal sector is dependent on agriculture, which has done very well during the period, because of good monsoon, after two years of drought. This minimized the impact of demonetization on the informal sector as sowing increased considerably giving boost to the economy. The farm sector is expected grow at over 6 per cent, which is much more than the average 4 per cent, thanks to copious rains this year. Of course, the exact impact of demonetization in the informal sector will be captured only when rabi output will be known after the harvest takes place in April. Nevertheless the Q3 figures have proved the doomsayers wrong and some economists forecast that the slowdown to the economy could be as much as two percentage points to GDP.

It is wrong to say that the CSO data are fudged as this national statistical organization is respected World over and their figures formed the basis for all data calculations. Of course it may be true that some data are not fully captured, due to large informal sector in the country and lag effect in collection of data, but it did not mean that the CSO figures are not representative of the growth trend, which is positive and upward. The better than expected performance in the third quarter is not only due to the farm sector but also mining and manufacturing. Also the government expenditure during the period increased and all these indicated that there is revival and the economy is on road to recovery. The sharp increase in agriculture growth at 6 per cent in third quarter as compared to 3.8 per cent in the previous quarter and a contraction 2.2 per cent in the previous year is something noteworthy. It also would have the multiplier effect on the economy as good agriculture will push up consumption demand thereby encouraging more sale of consumption goods particularly two-wheelers, cars and white goods. This will also encourage fresh capital investments.

All these augured well for the economy. It is only the financial, real estate and professional services segment that lagged and these sectors are also expected to pick up in the coming months after a temporary setback due to demonetization with improved economic activity.

Finance Minister Arun Jaitley is right in saying that the CSO data belies the exaggerated claims made by many that the rural and farm sectors were in distress due to demonetization. All those economists who predicted sharp fall in India's GDP growth in Q3 after Government invalidated high-value currency notes on November 8, have been proved wrong. However, many commercial banks, including State Bank of India and brokerages say that Q3 growth number was unnaturally high and could be revised down. This is partly because of large increase of cash in the books of several companies. State Bank of India said there had been sharp downward revision of GDP numbers for the third quarter of the last financial year, resulting in higher growth in the third quarter of 2016-17 and masking the impact of demonetization. Even then it seems implausible that the positive effect of downward revision is previous year of strong enough to overpower the negative effect of demonetization in Q3.

Edelweiss securities said that what was particularly striking in the GDP data was sharp pick-up in the manufacturing sector and steep acceleration in real private consumption.

There are may have been some hiccups in the short-term due to demonetization but in the long-term, it is likely to have significant increase in flow of financial savings, greater formalization of the economy, greater digitisation and transparency. The surplus liquidity in the banking system will spur growth due to increased access to credit. With increased availability of cash now, the growth will get a further boost with informal sector picking up substantially. Also the price stability brought about with moderating inflation will also act as a catalyst to growth, particularly rural consumption jumping up after two years of low consumption due to drought.

There also already indications that companies and consumers have overcome the problem of cash crunch in previous months. The Nikkei India Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) rose to 50.7 in February from 50.4 in January, suggesting further improvement in manufacturing sentiment. A PMI reading of over 50 indicates expansion.

Also domestic passenger vehicles sales rose 9.5 per cent in February from the year ago, marking second successive month of recovery after 14.4 per cent rise in January.

For the full year, the economy is expected to clock 7.1 per cent GDP growth. This is certainly slower than 7.9 per cent growth in 2015-16, but it is much better than near 6.5 per cent growth projected for 2016-17 earlier. CARE Ratings has raised its GDP growth to 7.1-7.2 per cent for 2016-17 from 6.5 per cent forecast earlier. ICRA predicts India now growing at 7.1 per cent from its earlier projections of 6.8 per cent.

The cash-intensive informal sector had certainly been affected due to demonetization and there is a possibility that CSO data could revise this advance estimates when the final figures arrive in May. But none can deny the fact the impact had been minimal and that now the cash crunch is over, the economy is certainly on road to recovery with good agriculture growth of over 4 per cent this year and manufacturing, trade, domestic consumption, particularly rural and construction sectors picking up in the coming months. India is certainly on a sweet spot and only major and emerging economy growing reasonably well and not slowing down appreciably, unlike China.

With global economy too showing signs of recovery, India's growth will only be pushed up further in 2017-18 to get back rapidly to high growth path of 8-9 per cent. With inflation moderating and furthering fiscal consolidation, India is in for a sustained high growth path, that too with the implementation of far-reaching tax reform, Goods and Services Tax. Rollout of GST alone will push India's GDP by 1-2 percentage points. The doomsayers are bound to be proved wrong.

craft heritage of the country. Select pilots like training on Chikankari, Handmade sports goods, etc have already been approved under the PMKVY scheme.

The Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) component of PMKVY is primarily focussed on assessing and certifying the skills of informal sector workers. Evaluation of trade learned skills and certification through assessment helps the trainees through increased mobility options to the formal sector employment. In certain cases, it has been observed that RPL certification has helped workers negotiate better wages and open possibilities for some vertical progression in their careers. In almost all cases, trainees have displayed enhanced self-confidence and pride through attainment of skill certificates.

While the first year of the scheme provided an opportunity to firm up the foundations of the program, it also threw up quite a few lessons. Thus, when the Union Cabinet approved the Scheme for another four years (2016-2020) to impart skilling to 1 crore youth of the country with an outlay of Rs. 12,000 crores, it was felt that this scheme extension should be based on three key pillars:

1. Standardization of training infrastructure and developing clear quality benchmarks for training centres.
2. Relentless focus on placements as a measure of final outcome
3. Promotion of transparency through an objective and process based decision making framework.

On the basis of the above three principal pillars, a slew of reforms measures were implemented for PMKVY (2016-2020):

1. Accreditation and affiliation of training centres : A new process of training centre accreditation and affiliation shifts the focus from training providers to training centres. Sector Skill Councils have developed detailed infrastructure guidelines based on which an inspections are undertaken. The accreditation decision is based on the training centre rating and grading methodology. The concerned Sector Skill Councils provide affiliation to a training centre for the approved job roles. This process extensively leverages technology through inspection and self-reporting apps providing for geo-stamped and time-stamped pictures. A dedicated online portal (smartnsdc.org) has been developed to support this process.

2. Standardization of course content : Sector Skill Councils have published model content curriculum for trainings prescribed under PMKVY (2016-2020) thereby ensuring standardized quality of text books. A standardized induction kit is also provided to all trainees at the commencement of the training.
3. Mandatory Training of Trainers : Trainers have to mandatorily undergo the 'Train the Trainer' program of the concerned Sector Skill Councils.

4. Unique enrolments and Aadhaar based attendance system : Aadhaar ID of all trainees are validated at the time of batch creation which prevents bogus enrolments. Further, at this stage a duplication check is also carried out to weed out candidates who may have earlier received similar training in the NSDC ecosystem. Attendance through Aadhaar Enabled Biometric Attendance System (AEBAS) is mandatory under PMKVY. Training Providers in select states of North East and J&K, where Aadhaar penetration is low, are required to capture attendance through a biometric device.

5. Mobile application for assessments : A new mobile app for evidence based assessments is under development.

It is envisaged that the above interventions would lead to better training outcomes which will ultimately reflect in the quantum and quality of placements. 70% wage employment post training has been made mandatory under the scheme and the training providers have been incentivised accordingly.

PMKVY has taken some big strides in providing competency based training on a massive scale and prescribed quality. It is successfully pushing the frontiers of attitude, knowledge and skill of Indian workforce especially those employed in the informal sector. Going forward, the current focus of the scheme on entry level job roles will be expanded to include appropriate interventions along the entire occupational path of focus trades. Properly designed upskilling and reskilling initiatives will have to be suitably incorporated in the scheme. This has become especially critical in the context of anticipated disruptions due to Industry 4.0. Hence, this scheme will evolve to include perhaps longer duration trainings on cutting edge skills for some higher learner segments like graduates. Over time, the scheme should provide a comprehensive and holistic workforce training interventions by catering to current and anticipated future employment ecosystem.
