CAREERS IN DIGITAL MARKETING

Dr. Sheetal Kapoor

The newest and fastest growing channels for communicating and selling directly to customers are digital. The internet provides marketers and consumers, opportunities for much greater interaction and individualisation. Digital marketing involves online, social media and mobile marketing activities and programs designed to engage customers or prospects and directly or indirectly raise awareness, improve image or elicit sales of products and services. Mobile marketing is a special form of online marketing that places communications on consumer's cell phones, smart phones or tablets. According to a research around 1.5 lakh jobs are expected to be created in India in 2017 in the area of digital marketing.

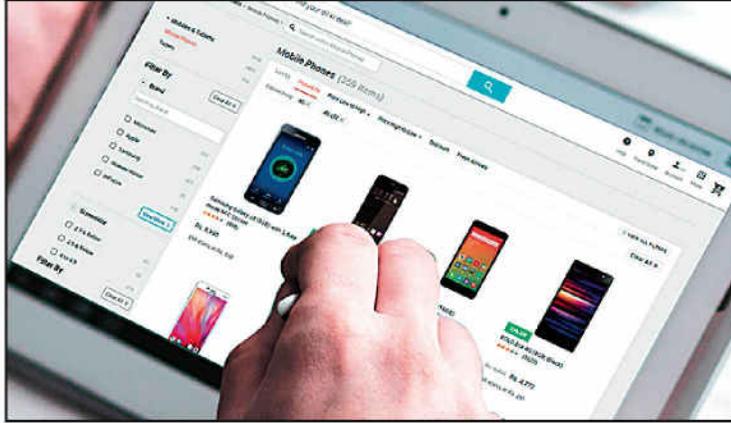

The main areas of online marketing communications are websites, search ads, display ads, e-mail, social media, blogs, viral marketing and mobile marketing. The variety of online options means companies can offer or send tailored information or message that engages consumers by reflecting their special interests and behaviour. Globally and in India also digital marketing is showing much rapid growth as compared to the traditional media.

The new digital era enables brands to selectively target their customers that may potentially be interested in their brand or based on previous browsing tisements from similar brands, products and services. This allows businesses to target the specific customers that they know and feel will most benefit from their product or service, something that had limited capabilities up until the digital era.

The presence of digitalisation is being witnessed in all types of interests. Businesses can now use social media to select the age range, location, gender and interests of whom they would like their targeted post to be seen by. Furthermore, based on a customer's recent search history they can be 'followed' on the internet so they see adver-

sectors such as retailing, manufacturing, banking, insurance, tourism, telecommunication, airlines, etc. Around 43% of World's population makes use of digital communication and in India 30% of the population are internet users. According to a study India will have over 500

Million Internet users by 2017 and 80% of these users (i.e. 400M+) will go online through a Mobile Phone. India took over 10 years to move from 10M to 100M Internet users. It took 3 years to grow from 100M to 200M and just 1 year to grow from 200M to 300M. Facebook alone has over 110 Million users in India. India has already surpassed US to become 2nd largest smartphone marketing. Moreover, number of smartphone owners has already overtaken desktop/laptop users in India.

Digital marketing offers plethora of career options in different kinds of organisations. The kind of work and variety of job profiles make online marketing career even a bigger opportunity. These include:

Digital Marketing and Advertising Agencies: These days traditional advertising agencies are also offering digital marketing services. There are a number of small, middle and large digital marketing agencies, who offer services such as Search Engine Optimisation, Search Engine Marketing, Social Media Marketing etc.

A brand leveraging Digital Marketing: There are job opportunities available for individuals who want to work for a particular brand or an organization, who's actively leveraging digital marketing such as web designers, bloggers, e-mail marketing.

Digital Marketing Tool/ Platform Company: Another career opportunity in digital marketing is to work for tool or platform companies such as Google, LinkedIn, Facebook, Adobe, twitter, youtube, etc. The kind of work and associated learning in these kinds of companies varies a lot and is quite different compared to working at an agency or a brand.

In addition to these full-time jobs in digital marketing, one can opt for freelancing/part-time/work-from-home opportunities in this industry.

Thus based on an individual's experience, his technical and non-technical skills such as communication, creativity, analytical skills and his interest, the following Job Profiles are available in Digital Marketing:

AGRICULTURAL MECHANIZATION NEED OF THE HOUR FOR ENHANCED PRODUCTIVITY

Arun Khurana

"Agricultural Mechanization" or "Farm Mechanization" refers to the development and use of machines that can take the place of human and animal power in agricultural processes. The mechanization of agriculture that took place during the 20th century led to major changes in how farmers plant, irrigate and harvest crops. Combines, tractors, harvesters and other machinery have enabled farmers to increase their production while relying less upon an extended labor force. In other words, agricultural mechanization is the process whereby equipments, machineries and implements are utilized to boost agricultural and food production. It is the application of machineries, equipments and implements in the day to day farm activities to increase marginal output in food production and poverty eradication. Agricultural mechanization reduces drudgery which hitherto makes it difficult for large scale food production and which has also been making it difficult for nations who have to meet their food requirements for the teeming population. In order to solve the problem of drudgery and other problems associated with food production, various measures has been introduced to combat these problems through mechanization. Agricultural mechanization involves the design, manufacture, distribution, use and servicing of all types of agricultural tools, equipment and machines. It includes three main power sources: human, animal and mechanical with special emphasis on mechanical (tractive power).

In other words, "Agricultural Mechanization" helps in increasing production, productivity and profitability in agriculture by achieving timeliness in farm operations, bringing precision in metering and placement of inputs, reducing available input losses, increasing utilization efficiency of costly inputs (seed, chemical, fertilizer, irrigation, water etc.), reducing unit cost of produce, enhancing profitability and competitiveness in the cost of operation. It also helps in the conservation of the produce and by products from qualitative and quantitative damages; enables value addition and establishment of agro processing enterprises for additional income and employment generation from farm produce. It is one of the important inputs to usher in all round development in the rural India. The efficiency of mechanization can be judged from the fact that modern plough is about 200 to 300 % efficient than indigenous plough, efficient machinery helps in increasing productivity by about 30% besides, enabling the farmers to raise a second crop or multi crop making the Indian agriculture attractive and a way of life by becoming commercial instead of subsistence. There is a need to double the food production by 2020. This will call for raising more crops in a year thus limiting the turnaround time. Increased production will require more use of agricultural inputs and protection of crops from biotic and abiotic stresses. This will call for greater engineering inputs which will require development and introduction of high capacity, precision, reliable and energy efficient equipment. Earlier, it was considered that mechanization creates unemployment. The myth has been broken and it has been observed that, agricultural mechanization besides increasing production and productivity, also generates income and employment

Union Human Resource Development Ministry has said that to avail benefit under the Central Sector Scholarship Scheme for College and University students, applicants will now have to furnish proof of possession of Aadhaar card or undergo Aadhaar authentication. HRD ministry notification issued in New Delhi said those who are receiving these scholarships but don't have an Aadhaar card will have to apply for enrolment by June 30th. It is, however, not applicable in Jammu and Kashmir. opportunities. Several studies conducted in different parts of India have shown that mechanization has helped in increasing production, productivity, generation of income and employment.

The importance of Agro-service Centres has been recognized and the Government of India has given emphasis to make it a success. The scheme aims at supporting 5000 ventures annually for individuals or on joint group basis. The present model scheme includes almost all the basic equipment necessary for crop production right from tillage upto bringing the produce to farmer's house/ market place, such as, Tractor, Trailer and Implements; Power Tiller/ Small Tractor; Pump Set with Accessories; Power Thresher; Winnowing; Self-Propelled Reaper; Sprayers; Tools for Repairing of Machines; Insurance; Workshop Shed; etc.

India's agricultural exports have grown almost eight times in the last decade, from around $5 billion in 2003 to over $39 billion in 2013, and the momentum is likely to continue this year. One of the drivers behind India's export growth has been the dramatic growth in government support provided to agriculture, particular for wheat and rice (the Minimum Support Prices for the two commodities have by 40% and 75% respectively over the past six years). This helps improve production and keep prices competitive.

The government's total support for agriculture has grown from $68 billion in 2009-10 to $85 billion in 2013-14 and is likely to reach a record high in 2014-15. This has helped India become an important player in the global market, especially for rice, cotton, sugar, and carabeef (buffalo meat). India is now the world's second largest cotton exporter (after USA), the second largest exporter of carabeef in the world (after Brazil), and the largest exporter of rice. Meanwhile, India's agricultural products export matrix has also changed significantly, tilting more and more towards developing and least-developed countries (LDCs) which now account for around 80% of India's agricultural exports. In 2013, India exported agricultural products worth $5.2 billion to LDCs, which is almost $1 billion more than the second largest supplier EU and more than three times than USAs exports to LDCs last year.

The agriculture sector in India is expected to generate better momentum in the next few years due to increased investments in agricultural infrastructure such as irrigation facilities, warehousing and cold storage. Factors such as reduced transaction costs and time, improved port gate management and better fiscal incentives would contribute to the sector's growth. Furthermore, the growing use of genetically modified crops will likely improve the yield for Indian farmers. According to the National Institution for Transforming India Aayog (NITI Aayog), India's agriculture sector is expected to grow 6 per cent in FY 2016-17 in case of normal monsoon during the June-September period. The 12th Five-Year Plan estimates the foodgrain storage capacity to expand to 35 MT. Also, a 4 per cent growth would help restructure the agriculture sector in India in the next few years.

The growing demand-supply gap in agricultural sector will be a key driver for market growth. Population growth is one of the major drivers of the food demand in India. The population of India has increased from 930 million in 1996 to about 1.29 billion in 2015. The real value of agri-food demand in India will rise by 136% in 2009-2050. The demand for food has increased with the increase in population. However, the area of arable land has not increased in proportion to the rise in the demand for food. So, farmers are trying to increase efficiency and accelerate production by adopting advanced agricultural machinery and efficient farm cultivation techniques to meet the increased demand for food.

The trend has already begun in some ways, with those who remain in farming turning to newer methods of optimizing the output on their farms, including adopting newer technologies to save cost and time. The use of tractors and tillers increasing five-fold in the last four decades is a testimony to this fact. According to the Department of Agriculture, the share of agriculture workers and draught animals (farm power sources in agriculture) has come down from 63.5 per cent in 1971-72 to 13.67 per cent in 2009-10, whereas the share of tractors, power tillers, and motors has gone up from 36.51 per cent to 86.33 per cent during the same period. The Ministry of Agriculture is giving a major thrust to farm mechanization through its various schemes. A dedicated Sub-Mission on Agricultural Mechanization has been proposed for the Twelfth Plan, which includes custom-hiring facilities for agricultural machinery as one of its major components. Its focus is on increasing the reach of farm mechanization to small and marginal farmers and to the regions where availability of farm power is low. In order to attain the projected demand of 280 MT of food grains by 2020-21, farm power availability in the country has to be scaled up to at least 2.0 Kw/ha by the end of the Twelfth Plan. For achieving this, farm mechanization has to be given primacy.

The Government has implemented various farm mechanization programmes in the country through schemes such as Rashtriya Krishi Vikas Yojna (RKVY), Mission for Integrated Development of Horticulture (MIDH), National Mission on Oilseeds and Oil Palm (NMOOP) and National Food Security Mission (NFSM). In addition to development of such schemes, the government has also implemented the National Mission on Agricultural Extension and Technology (NMAET) to strengthen the extension machinery and utilize the same for synergizing the interventions under these schemes.

Innovation in farm machinery sector will drive the next phase of agricultural growth in the country, with focus on spreading farm mechanization to small and marginal farmers and regions that have low farm power availability. As a result, Indian farmer is fast adapting farm mechanization than ever before. The agriculture equipment market in India is presently valued at 6.5 billion USD and has enormous potential for further growth. The tractor market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 8-9 % in next five years. The joint efforts made by Government and farm equipment industry in the country have led to such progress in mechanization over the years.

Research and development efforts and approaches in agricultural mechanization in India have been directed towards finding cost-effective solutions to location-specific problems of agriculture. Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR), New Delhi is the apex body which primarily looks after the need of research and development activities, need based region specific technologies and specific-problem related issues. The engineering division of ICAR comprises 5 research institutes, 6 All India Coordinated Research Projects (AICRPs), 1 network project/outreach programme and a National Initiative on Climate Resilient Agriculture project. 4 Coordinating Cells of AICRPs with their centres are operating from the Central Institute of Agricultural Engineering, Bhopal, which caters to the engineering needs emphasizing on sustainable agricultural mechanization of the country. These are: i) Farm Implements and Machinery (24 centres), ii) Ergonomics and Safety in Agriculture (10 centres), iii) Renewable Energy Sources (18 centres), and iv) Utilization of Animal Energy (13 centres).

It is understood that a proposal is afoot to establish a Farm Mechanization Institute under the auspices of the Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operation. This institute will intensify research on different aspects of Farm Mechanization including technosocio-economic aspects with a view to develop a long range Farm Mechanization Policy. A Draft Agricultural Mechanization Policy has already been evolved and it awaits approval of the government.

To sum up, it may be concluded that farm mechanization is a dynamic technology development process. With diversification of agriculture and adoption of frontier technologies with a view to have eco-friendly sustainable agriculture with globally competitive outputs, cutting edge farm mechanization technologies will need to be developed and introduced expeditiously. Reduction in cost and up-gradation of quality are the twin goals to be achieved. Farm mechanization technology being capital intensive, all farm mechanization R&D projects must be demand-driven and reverse engineering approach must be followed. Up-gradation of manufacturing capabilities, use of computer-aided design and close co-operation with industry through joint projects will help improve the quality and reliability of farm equipment. Conformance to global standards and norms will be necessary. In coming years, higher horse power tractors and high capacity machinery will be required to meet the needs of export oriented agriculture, corporate farming, custom hiring and multi-farm use. Human engineering applications to ensure safety, comfort and compatibility in respect of noise levels and exhaust emissions will be necessary. The future of farm mechanization in India is bright. However, we will have to intensify research funding and efforts in frontier areas.

Implementation of the Sub-Mission on Agricultural Mechanization (SMAM) program by the Ministry of Agriculture is a positive step towards increasing farm productivity across the country. The program will be a catalyst for inclusive growth of agricultural mechanization in India by ensuring last mile reach of farm mechanization to small and marginal farmers. The concept of custom hiring has potential provided there is integration of all operations viz. provision of agri inputs like seeds, fertilizers and equipment, through partnerships with various partners in the ecosystem. With appropriate policy support for adoption, development and promotion of farm mechanization technologies through training, demonstration and use of Information Communication Technology (ICT), the true potential of custom hiring can be harnessed. As the small/marginal holdings constitute 80% of total land holdings in India, the potential for CHCs, which will cater to the farm machinery requirement of such a vast area, is quite huge. Government of India, in recognition of this potential had envisaged increase of farm power availability from the present level of 0.93 kW/ha to 2 kW/ha during the 12th plan period (2012-2017). States governments of Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Punjab have been promoting Custom Hiring on Public Private Partnership (PPP) basis through training, demonstration and financial incentives.

Finally, "Agricultural Mechanization" will be a key factor to achieving our Total Factor Productivity (TFP) goals and feeding a growing planet. Looking ahead, agricultural machines will become data-rich sensing and monitoring systems that can map the performance of both machines and the environment they work on with precision resolution and accuracy, and this capability will unlock levels of information about production agriculture that were heretofore unavailable.

Above all, "Agricultural Mechanization" industry in India is expected to grow at a rapid pace owing to the government efforts to bridge the supply and demand gap of agriculture through R & D and technology efforts in next five year plan (2013-2017). Shrinking farm holdings also demands the need for mechanization so that the agricultural yield can be maximized with optimal efforts through mechanization. Agricultural equipment sector in India has been witnessing robust demand and stands to gain maximum due to the need to use technologically advanced equipment in the farms in the future. Key growth drivers for Indian agricultural equipment industry include:

- ◆ 100 percent Foreign Direct Investment allowance in the Space
- ◆ Increase in Investment for R & D.
- ◆ Funding through World Bank, Indian Public and Private Entities
- ◆ Improved availability of credit to the farmers
- ◆ Shortage of skilled labour supply
- ◆ Government subsidies on farming equipment

Government has thrust on agricultural mechanization to increase productivity and provides farm machinery at subsidized rates to encourage farmers to use agriculture machinery for operations. Some of the measures which Government has taken to support mechanization are listed below:

- ◆ Bharat Nirman & Flagship Programmes to support rural infrastructure through increasing rural water supply, irrigation, rural housing, rural electrification, rural telecommunication, etc.
- ◆ Minimum Support Price (MSP) to support farmers in selling their produce and minimize risk
- ◆ Subsidy on agriculture machinery so that farmers could afford machinery and lower their total cost of ownership
- ◆ Rural Infrastructure Development Fund (RIDF) to finance rural infrastructure through of channelizing of funds through banks.

Strategies and programmes have been directed towards replacement of traditional and inefficient implements by improved ones, enabling the farmers to own tractors, power tillers, harvesters and other machines, availability of custom hire services, support services of human resource development, testing, evaluation and research & development. A huge industrial base for manufacturing of the agricultural machines has also been developed. Introduction of technologically advanced equipments through extension and demonstration besides institutional credit has also been taken up. Equipments for resource conservation have also been adopted by the farmers. Under various government sponsored schemes, like Macro Management of Agriculture; Technology Mission for Oilseeds, Pulses and Maize; Technology Mission on Horticulture; Technology Mission on Cotton; and National Food Security Mission; financial assistance is provided to the farmers for the purchase of identified agricultural implements and machines. Currently in agriculture sector of India, the production costs are rapidly increasing while eroding the profit margin of farmers. Hence there is a need of farm mechanization to reduce costs, enhance productivity and efficiency. The farm mechanization market in India is to grow at a CAGR of 7.53% during the period 2016-2020. The market is divided into the following segments based on product, such as, Harvester; Laser Land Leveler; Power Tiller; Rice Transplanter; Tractor; etc. Also, the term rural mechanization, rather than agricultural mechanization, should be used because it is only rarely that one can separate agricultural mechanization from other rural economic activities.

ENRICH YOUR LIFE SKILLS & CAREER

Dr. Jitendra Nagpal

Life skills are abilities for adaptive and positive behaviour that enable our youngsters to deal effectively with the demands and challenges of everyday life. These are a set of human skills acquired via teaching or direct experience that are used to handle problems and questions commonly encountered in daily human life.

Dr. Jitendra Nagpal is a Life Skills Coach. He is a developmental trainer in youth well being and soft skills for the schools, colleges and corporate sector. In this regular column, he will answer the questions of our readers.

Q. I'm 23 year old and done through the school and onto my first ever job. Naturally, now I have to work that extra bit very hard to prove myself. But lately I have started feeling stressed out and disorganized. I often feel helpless. How do I help myself?

A. You are going through the "wear and tear" experience. Stress may be defined as any interference that disturbs a person's health and mental and physical well being. It occurs when the body is required to perform beyond its range of capabilities.

You need to acknowledge certain facts. As a positive influence, stress can help compel us to action; it can result in a new awareness and an exciting new perspective. As a negative influence, it can result in feelings which in turn can lead to health problems such as lack of sleep, mood swings, indigestion, abdominal cramps, neck ache, and backache including the feeling of helplessness.

While moving ahead at your debut job, it is important to take care of a healthy balanced diet, good sleep, moderate exercise and regular communication with loved ones. The golden rule is to enhance intake of greens, fruits salads and pulses, keep a check on the oils, spices and salts. Adequate sleep is must for rejuvenation of the mind. Plan at least 6 - 7 hours of restful sleep to enhance concentration. Minimum structured physical activity i.e. 15-20 minutes of brisk walk, jogging, swimming or an outdoor game is not only refreshing but also mood elevating. Keep your pro-social behaviour alive and flying along with the demanding job. Remember family and friends are always a leap to your confidence.

Q. I am 26 year old and working as a Banker at a private organization in Noida. At the same time, I'm also in a relationship which I'm not able to handle these days. It's causing me lot of stress. Please help me strike the right balance between my work and relationship.

A. Young people are working harder, longer hours and still trying to manage their lives. However, as one dedicates more time to ones jobs, personal lives begin to suffer. It is paramount to create a healthy work/life balance in order to remain focused on the job as well as feel the contentment at home. Dealing with your stress can only start when you recognize that the pressures in your life are reaching hard times. The relationship strife can turn more intense when the partners take the stress out at each other. While your partner must learn to appreciate that your work means a lot to you, on your part efforts to balance must be visible.

One of the first casualties of overstretching yourself is usually your personal time - you lose those valuable moments that allow you to rejuvenate. Needless to say that before unhealthy stress takes toll, reflect on ways to enhance your time management skills. Your objective should be to balance home, work and leisure effectively in order to find space for yourself. The downside of not finding this balance is that you reach the point of fatigue when you cease to live life optimally. Heed the warning signals. Change your perception of the situation by altering your routine and slowing down a bit, enhancing your communication and well being methods viz. exercise, diet and sleep. This means adopting newer skills for a better and meaningful life of happiness.

- In its thirty ninth flight (PSLV-C37), ISRO's Polar Satellite Launch Vehicle successfully launched the 714 kg Cartosat-2 Series Satellite along with 103 co-passenger satellites on February 15, 2017, from the Satish Dhawan Space Centre SHAR at Sriharikota. This is the thirty eighth consecutively successful mission of PSLV. The total weight of all the 104 satellites carried on-board PSLV-C37 was 1378 kg. PSLV-C37 lifted off at 0928 hrs (9:28 am) IST, as planned, from the First Launch Pad. After a flight of 16 minutes 48 seconds, the satellites achieved a polar Sun Synchronous Orbit of 506 km inclined at an angle of 97.46 degree to the equator (very close to the intended orbit) and in the succeeding 12 minutes, all the 104 satellites successfully separated from the PSLV fourth stage in a predetermined sequence beginning with Cartosat-2 series satellite, followed by INS-1 and INS-2. The total number of Indian satellites launched by PSLV now stands at 46. Of the 103 co-passenger satellites carried by PSLV-C37, two - ISRO Nano Satellite-1 (INS-1) weighing 8.4 kg and INS-2 weighing 9.7 kg - are technology demonstration satellites from India. The remaining 101 co-passenger satellites carried were international customer satellites from USA (96), The Netherlands (1), Switzerland (1), Israel (1), Kazakhstan (1) and UAE (1).
- In Tamil Nadu, the new Chief minister Edappadi K Palaniswamy won the trust vote held on February 18, after 122 MLAs voted in his favour after hours of uproar in the Assembly. The vote was concluded after Assembly Speaker P. Dhanapal turned down the opposition DMK's request for a secret ballot in the floor test. Eleven MLAs voted against Mr Palaniswamy. As one seat in the Assembly is vacant, the required number to win the vote was 117. The house was adjourned twice and resumed after the second adjournment at 3pm. Earlier the assembly was adjourned till 1 pm following protest by DMK MLAs, O.Panneerselvam camp MLAs and Congress MLAs demanding secret ballot. Mr. Palaniswamy, a V.K Sasikala loyalist, sought vote of confidence at 11 in the morning though he was given 15 days by the Governor to prove his majority. After a prolonged political crisis due to power struggle within the ruling AIADMK, Governor Vidyasagar Rao invited him to form the Government on Thursday and had administered oath of office and secrecy.
- Pursuing Prime Minister, Shri Narendra Modi's vision of Affordable, Quality Healthcare for All, the Centre has issued notification for fixing the ceiling prices of coronary stents. This was informed by Union Minister for Chemicals & Fertilizers and Parliamentary Affairs, Shri Ananthkumar. The step would bring down the cost of coronary stents, currently hiked by about 380%. The ceiling prices of Bare Metal Stents (BMS), having 10% market share, has been capped at Rs. 7,260 and Drug Eluting Stents (DES), having 90% market share, at Rs. 29,600. These prices are exclusive of VAT and other local taxes. The Minister further stated that since most of the States have 5% VAT on stents, the MRP of BMS and DES would be Rs.7623 and Rs. 31,080. National Pharmaceutical Pricing Authority (NPPA) has fixed the prices within 60 days as required. The step is a major decisive action on the unethical margins charged at each stage in the supply chain of coronary stents.

International

- UN Secretary General Antonio Guterres has cautioned US President Donald Trump against abandoning the idea of a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, saying there is no alternative. It comes after Mr Trump went against decades of US policy, saying he would back whatever formula led to peace. Palestinians reacted with alarm to the possibility that the US could drop support for Palestinian statehood. The last round of Israeli-Palestinian peace talks broke down in 2014. Speaking alongside Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, President Trump promised to deliver a great peace deal. But he said both sides must compromise.

Republican Senator Orrin Hatch, Chairman of the Senate Republican High-Tech Task Force, said in Washington that he will soon re-introduce the Immigration Innovation Act, which he had introduced in the last two Congresses to modernise H-1B visa system. He said, US will face a shortage of more than 220,000 workers with STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) degrees by 2018 and Washington need to reform H-1B visa system to better identify high-skilled individuals who want to come and stay in the United States and to contribute to its economy.

- Finance Minister Arun Jaitley said normalcy has been restored within few weeks of the decision to recall 86 per cent of the currency in circulation and now there is no shortage of notes in market. He said, currency note printing presses of Reserve Bank of India as well as Security Printing and Minting Corporation of India Ltd, SPMCIL have worked without a break to remonetise by issuing new bank notes. Mr Jaitley heaped praises on Prime Minister Narendra Modi's much-debated demonetisation move claiming perhaps such massive exercise has not happened in any country. He was speaking at the 11th Foundation Day function of the Security Printing Minting Corporation of India Limited, SPMCIL in New Delhi.
- Reserve Bank Governor Urjit Patel said India's economic growth will make a sharp recovery following the recall of old 500 and 1,000 rupee notes. In an interview to a private TV channel, Mr Patel made a strong case for continuing with globalisation, even in the face of a potential shift to trade protectionism under US President Donald Trump, as India has benefited from open trade. He said, the remonetisation has happened at a fast pace and that was part of the plan. RBI had lowered economic growth projection for the current fiscal to 6.9 per cent from the previously estimated 7.1 per cent, but saw it bouncing back in a big way to 7.4 per cent in 2017-18. Mr Patel said, the benefit of junking 86 per cent of currency in circulation will take time to fully play out and needs more work to ensure they are lasting.

- Nearly half of the 18 lakh people under the Income Tax scanner for suspicious bank deposits during the demonetisation period, have been put in the 'doubtful' category. The action against them will follow only after the new tax amnesty scheme which ends on 31st of next month. Publications Division Launches Online Digital Library

Under the 12th Plan Scheme component of digitization, the Publications Division has converted over 750 books into digital format, and is poised to meet the Plan Scheme target of digitizing 1000 books by end of March 2017. Instead of maintaining separate DVDs of all the books, the Division has created a user friendly fully searchable Digital Library, commonly referred to as Online Digital Library (ODL).

This internet based application for storing and accessing e-books of DPD, facilitate download, search e-books and provide secure access to a list of users. All the books of Publications Division which are digitally converted till date are made available in the ODL which has been developed in-house and is hosted on an internal server. Users are given login ID and passwords with which they can log in and access the e-books. The digitized books are in the e-pub formats.

Some Selected Features of Digital Library are as follows:

Fully Searchable: This Digital Library is fully searchable enabling the user to just type a portion of the book or the author to access the book.

Reading Options: All the e-books are available in PDF and e-pub (e-pub font & UTF-8) formats. E-books can be downloaded and can also be read online with necessary PDF plug-ins.

Access restriction: From the admin panel of ODL, users can be added as well as removed by the administrators.

Download tracking: The ODL is loaded with the facility to track the total downloads being done by a user from the system. This added security feature ensures a check on the number of e-books downloaded by any user.

Range of titles in the Online Digital Library:

The ODL has a range of titles in electronic format published in the 1960s or even earlier to present, in English, Hindi and Urdu. The books fall under two categories:

i) eBooks with sale potential: Titles which are 'live' and listed in the Catalogue are offered for sale through e-commerce platforms (Amazon.in, Kobo.com and Google Play Books) as per the new Business Policy guidelines. At present, of the over 750 digitized titles in the ODL there are 150 ebooks available for online sale. List of books for online sale is available at www.publicationsdivision.nic.in.

ii) eBooks of archival value: The books published by the DPD in the 1950s, 60s and 70s, and now digitized do not have sale potential but draw immense interest from students & researchers. Some of these titles include among others Indian Unity from Dream to Reality (1964), Warnings of History (1959), The 14-Day War (1972), Behind Portuguese Prison Bars(1960), Jallianwala Bagh 13 April 1919 (1969). These books make very interesting reading and the range of titles published year after year, traces the journey of the country in its march to development.

The ODL is also a permanent archives for the Division. In this digital library cum archives, all the digitized books of DPD are being placed for easy retrieval and access to the DPD's staff as well as visitors to the DPD's new Book Gallery in Sookhna Bhawan where computers hosting the ODL are being installed.
